

“A remarkable account of all the 82nd units passing through Northern Ireland with more interesting, detailed personal stories than any other source on the period. An accurate, amazing contribution to the WWII history of the All Americans.”

“Passing Through” will be enjoyed by veterans who were stationed in Northern Ireland, as well as troopers who served elsewhere. Mr. McCann’s way of retelling the stories is so well done that it makes readers feel that they too are included in the relationship. His words reveal a personal admiration for the units ... Like I myself, others who read this book will gain information and an appreciation of the wonderful relationship the 82nd Airborne Division shared with the citizens of Northern Ireland. Mr. McCann has put into words feeling that I have had in my heart for the time I was stationed in Portrush.”
